

WILSON OUTLINES NEW MANPOWER PLANS

Council Approves Purchase CIPS Reservoir, Equipment

Also Gives First Reading To Franchise

Council Okays Water Board Action For $2,000 Purchase

The city council this morning took another step in its program to give Harrisburg a first class water system of its own when it approved last night's action of the water board to buy the Central Illinois Public Service Co. reservoir and equipment for $2,000.

Both water board and council members pointed out that to buy and construct what the city is getting for $2,000 would cost thousands and thousands of dollars. The CIPS months ago had informed the city it was closing down its Muddy power station and was giving the city first chance to buy its equipment and land in the water area.

The CIPS proposition includes about 85 acres, on which are the CIPS reservoir, the spray pond, pump house, three pumps and lines, transformers, etc.

The water board last night voted to accept the proposition, and this morning the council voted acceptance.

The council this morning also gave first reading to a 50-year franchise submitted by the CIPS. The franchise, said William J. Hopkins, superintendent of the Harrisburg group, contains the same provisions as the one in effect, except for a few items including giving the city up to 55,000 kilowatt hours of free power yearly instead of the present 45,000; and in furnishing power for flood control pumping, setting the rate at "not more than one cent per kilowatt hour" instead of a flat one cent.

Hopkins pointed out, in presenting the franchise, that it gives the CIPS the right to distribute and sell power in the city but it does not give the company the monopoly, that it does not keep anybody out of the town.

Rounds Out City's Needs
And regarding future rates, he pointed out that the CIPS does not set its own rates, but that this is done by the Illinois Commerce Commission on the basis of the earnings of the company.

The addition of the CIPS reservoir and equipment will round out fully the city's needs as to water storage and pumping equipment.

The pumps, used for several years to pull water from the Bankston Fork ditch and Middle Fork drainage ditch, can be utilized for picking up good water when there is a heavy rain, and in addition, will be used to pick up water from gravity flow from the new reservoir to be constructed near Galatia.

The CIPS reservoir, which is in much better condition than the present reservoir, can be used as a stand-by reservoir, and will give an added guarantee of plenty of water for Harrisburg's present use or for additional use by industry. The pumping station has been kept in good repair by the CIPS, according to investigations made by water board members, and the pumps have been overhauled and worn bearings, etc., have been replaced during the past year, reportedly at a cost in excess of the amount to be paid for the entire facility.

Name Jordan Inspector
In another action the council confirmed the action of the water board last night in naming Sneed Jordan a full-time inspector to represent the board during the construction of Lake Harrisburg. It was pointed out that Jordan is well acquainted with reservoirs, and their construction.

Mayor Ralph Horning announced to the council that he was reappointing P. J. Herron, whose term will expire this month, to the water board, and the council confirmed the appointment.

Other items of business:
Because the street sometimes is blocked by cars parked on both sides of the street, it was voted to place "No Parking" signs on the west side of South McKinley avenue from Sloan to College.

The annual levy ordinance, which levies tax money for the operation of the city, was passed.

The council directed Fire Deputy Ray Johnson to work with Deputy Fire Marshal Dowe Robinson of Eldorado in getting something done about dilapidated buildings in the city that are fire hazards. Property owners will be asked to repair them or raze them.

A raise in the pay of street department employees from $1.15 to $1.30 an hour was voted, retroactive to July 1.

HIGHWAY WORK on the Mitchellville-to-Dixon Springs road is progressing at the Mitchellville intersection, where there is a considerable project. Here the S. J. Groves Construction Co., which has the contract for the 22 miles of pavement, is now doing dirt work in preparation for widening and relocating about 2,000 feet of pavement which runs from the intersection toward Harrisburg. This 22-foot relocated pavement will lie immediately to the west of the present 18-foot pavement of Route 34. A large culvert is being constructed at the intersection, also. A detour will be constructed around this project for several hundred feet on the east side of Route 34. (Daily Register Staff Photo)

Jaycees Secure 2.36 Acres County Farm Land for Proposed Factory; Local Group Contracts with Firm

Action Approved By Special Meeting Of County Board

The Harrisburg Junior Chamber of Commerce today secured 2.36 acres of county farm land for a projected factory that is expected to eventually employ 250 to 300 persons.

The land, which lies on the west side of the Pauper Farm highway, just south of the barn, was sold to the local organization for $500. The action occurred at a special meeting of the Saline County Board of Supervisors, called for today to discuss selling the piece of land.

There was one dissenting vote on the proposition of selling the ground to the Jaycees. The vote was unanimous on a second motion, which was that the Jaycees pay the county an additional $750 in case the factory defaults on the terms of its contract with the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Firm Investigated
Robert S. Davenport was the spokesman of the Jaycees committee which met with the board.

Davenport opened his remarks by saying the Jaycees have the opportunity to secure a factory, which makes cigarette lighters and plastic objects, which will build up to a personnel of from 250 to 300 in the county.

The company, headed by Irving I. Hughes of St. Louis, has been investigated and found reliable, he continued, and added that Hughes already had signed his name on a contract with the Jaycees, the contract to become effective after signatures by Jaycee officers.

Hughes, he stated, was shown a number of possible sites and he desired the county farm acreage, and the Jaycees desired to buy the property to deed to him for the factory.

Investment by Jaycees
The acreage involved has a frontage of 400 feet and goes back from 250 to 260 feet, he continued, and said the Jaycees had agreed to give Hughes in the amount of around $10,000 for him to construct an $85,000 to $100,000 investment.

Specifically, the local group has agreed to give him the acreage, run gas, water and sewer lines to his nearest building and to invest $9,000 in the company.

To protect themselves and the county, the Jaycees obtained in the contract some default provisions.

Hundreds of Articles On Display In Floral Hall At County Fair

In the departments of floriculture, fine arts and household arts proud producers and owners of exhibits in nearly every class listed by the Saline County Agriculture Association, entered their choice possessions yesterday and this morning at the Saline County fair.

When the entries closed at 5 p. m. Tuesday, hundreds of articles to be examined by the judges were entered in the various classes. As they were registered, a group of young people helped to arrange them in groups which were neatly displayed and may be seen by all fair goers by visiting the floral hall.

Only two classes were short in supply of listed entries. That was the floriculture department and agriculture departments, hit by the drought.

Agriculture, Floriculture
V. V. Brown is superintendent of the agriculture department in which $357 in prizes were offered. Most of the cereal grains were represented by varieties of soy beans, peas, and clover. Carrots, onions, cucumbers, tomatoes and water-melon were exhibited, also potatoes.

Mrs. V. V. Brown is superintendent of the floriculture department, where $204 in prizes were offered. This display was handicapped this year by drought conditions, especially in Harrisburg, where many flower growers have lost their best show specimen because of not being able to water their flowers.

Some of the exhibits there came from Eldorado and from Franklin county. Mrs. Lulu Beatty, Benton, had a very pretty arrangement of Bells of Ireland in an all green arrangement.

Mrs. Iva Young, Eldorado, who has been an exhibitor at the Saline county fair for 42 years, brought 22 exhibits for the flower section, late Monday.

Mrs. Mrs. O. N. Stinson and Mrs. Young both had entries in the fancy work and food department. Mrs. Katherine Jurecki, Rt. 1, Harrisburg, who has won the crocheted cup for two years, will be eager to know if she may add another cup to her collection. She has made a pillow top with ribbons which she has won at the Saline and Williamson county fairs and at the Du Quoin State Fair.

Mrs. J. C. Gasaway, Mrs. W. E. Witten, Mrs. Norma Wise and Mrs. Bernice McGuire also had many entries in the food section.

Nadine Dugan, and Mrs. Eula Whiteside, Grantsburg, were among the out of town exhibitors of candy and flowers.

Mrs. Everett Stricklin had numerous exhibits in the needlework section.

In the department of textiles and fine arts, Mrs. Russell Malan, superintendent of textiles, and Mrs. Hudson Mudge, superintendent of fine arts, $810 in prizes were offered and it was likely that all would be paid out, as the exhibits were numerous.

Large Crowd Attends Opening Of County Fair

Thrill Show Features Opener; Fine Livestock on Exhibit

The 48th annual Saline County Fair got off to a rousing start last night as a crowd that nearly packed the grandstand gave an enthusiastic reception to Jack Kochman's Hell Drivers.

The thrill show moved fast as the drivers went through more than a score of events, and when it was over many spectators were heard to voice their approval of the first night program.

There were barrel rolls, complete rolls that wrecked an old car, a leap through the air that ended in a crash of two old cars, motorcycle and auto racing thru flames, lots of comedy and a climax that left the crowd gasping.

This finale featured two of the ace drivers, George Patton and Neal Hamilton. Patton catapulted a speeding open car up a ramp way into space and through flames onto a receiving ramp about 100 feet away as Hamilton, with driving precision, passed under the leaping car.

Events Tonight
The fair was in progress today, which will feature 4-H project showing and other events, and tonight there will be a program of horse racing, horse show events and southern Illinois talent starting at 7 p. m.

There will be five running races, six horse show events and entertainment interspersed throughout the program. Helen Asbell is playing the organ in front of the grandstand.

Tomorrow and Thursday night and Thursday afternoon there will be similar programs.

A tour of the fairgrounds yesterday revealed that exceptionally fine livestock is being brought to the fair for exhibit.

In the cattle barns and tents were seen the following exhibits: Jerseys from Oren E. Roberson of Brownfield; Angus from the Baker Angus Farm at Temple Hill; Meier Angus from Jackson, Mo.; Brown Swiss and Guernseys from South of Endfield; Brown Swiss from H. L. Lyerla of Anna; Pixley of West Salem and Pixley of Allendale with their Holsteins; Fred Bigler of Carbondale and his Jerseys; Jerry Merriman of West Frankfort and his Ayrshires; Oscar Stinson of Eldorado and his Jerseys; Kirkpatrick & Sons of Marion and their Herefords; Thread Bros. of Albion with their Shorthorns; Egyptian Farm of Se-

Lions Meet At Fairgrounds

The weekly meeting of the Harrisburg Lions club was held Monday evening at the Saline County Fairgrounds.

The Lions are operating the grandstand concession stand and met in the stand, having dinner consisting of the food items they sell—hot dogs, peanuts, soft drinks—before offering them to the public.

The Lions will operate the stand throughout fair week and are assisted by members of the baseball team the club sponsors in the Kiwanis league.

COLD SPRINGS, on the Herman Thorne property on Route 34 just this side of Thacker's Gap, is proving to be a popular water hole these days. A Daily Register photographer heard about the popularity of the place and last Friday made a trip to the spot to see if the springs were being used. He ran into four persons busy filling jugs with drinking water and snapped them in their activity. Pictured above are John Wall of Harrisburg (with back to the camera), the Rev. Earl Throgmorton of Golconda and Ethel and Eva Thorne of Harrisburg. Mr. Thorne was not around but some of those present said he permitted taking water for drinking purposes but that he didn't allow it to be hauled away in tank trucks. (Daily Register Photo)

U. S. Ready to Use Its Military Might to Prevent Red Invasion of Formosa

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States stands ready to throw its military force against any attempt by Red China to invade Formosa, officials said today.

They issued the warning in the face of stepped up demands recently by Red Chinese officials for Communist conquest of Formosa.

The officials said the United States considers the Nationalist China stronghold of Formosa essential to America's security and believes that it must remain in friendly hands.

This country has no written agreement to help Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek protect his Nationalist government in case of attack. But officials said the United States has made it clear it intends to help Chiang and is willing to use armed force if necessary.

Chu Teh Sounds Call
The latest Red call for an invasion came two days ago from Gen. Chu Teh, commander-in-chief of the Communist Chinese army.

"Taiwan (Formosa) has been our territory from ancient times," he said in a broadcast speech. "As long as the Chiang brigands are not thoroughly wiped out, so long as Taiwan is not liberated, our task of liberating the whole of China cannot be considered complete."

"We absolutely will not allow other countries to interfere."

Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-Lai joined the propaganda assault against U. S. policy on Formosa in a banquet speech in Peking Monday night. However, unlike Chou, he did not threaten to "liberate" Formosa.

Says U. S. Plots Aggression
The Red premier charged that the United States intended to use Formosa as a military springboard for continuing aggression against China.

'55 License Plates Orange and Blue
SPRINGFIELD (UP)—Secretary of State Charles E. Carpenter has chosen the orange and blue of the University of Illinois as the colors for 1955 motor vehicle license plates.

Carpenter said he conferred with fighting Illinois head football Coach Ray Eliot over selection of the colors, and Eliot was providing samples of U. of I. football uniforms for matching purposes. Plates will be navy blue with orange numbers.

The slogan, "Land of Lincoln," will appear on the plates for the second year. This time it will be across the bottom of the plates, instead of the top.

Judge Wright's ruling was that the court finds that Ryan's petition fails to prove violation of any of his constitutional rights in the proceedings leading up to his plea of guilty and his conviction for the offense of murder and that he was dismissing the petition filed by Ryan.

A hearing was held on Ryan's petition here June 21 with Judge Wright presiding. Ryan was brought from Menard for the hearing and he was represented by Atty. Zeno Middleton of East St. Louis. State's Attorney Jones represented the people.

To Ask Draft Extension, Forced Reserve

Work Out Details For Presentation To Next Congress

WASHINGTON (UP)—Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson said today that the National Security Council "in a broad sense" has approved plans to ask Congress to renew the draft act which expires next June 30 and for compulsory participation in reserve forces.

Wilson said the administration believes that "practically all young men" will have to see military service.

On the question of reserves, he told a news conference that if the United States got into a war today the military reserve setup "would be a scandal and a very disturbing thing for the American people."

Wilson said details of a reserve program are being worked out by the Defense Department and the Office of Defense Mobilization for further study by President Eisenhower and the National Security Council and presentation to Congress next January.

The White House, commenting on a news conference statement last week by retiring Asst. Defense Secretary John A. Hannah, said Monday that a "specific program" for military manpower has not been approved yet by the Security Council.

The White House statement was made after Hannah told reporters of plans for reserve forces totaling 3,055,894 to be immediately available in event of war.

Wilson said the plan is one "where all the pieces fit in." But he said he expects there will be "political compromises" resulting from activities of "pressure groups." Therefore, he said, he expects "to get a 90 per cent plan where he could have had 100 per cent."

He said he does not think "any particular harm" was done by the Hannah explanation of military manpower plans, although "it does stir up the country." He said that "people who have a vested interest" are going to be heard from, in any event.

Wilson did not say whether he meant various reserve or National Guard organizations which are reported at the Pentagon to be upset by some aspects of the manpower plans.

Ryan Petition For Release from Prison is Denied

State's Attorney Glen O. Jones has received from Circuit Judge Clarence E. Wright of Carbondale a notice that James Ryan's petition seeking freedom has been denied.

Ryan, sentenced to a life term and held in Menard penitentiary on his plea of guilty to the murder of Samuel Black, Gallatin county farmer, in 1943, sought his freedom under the Post-Conviction act, charging his constitutional rights had been denied at the time of his arrest and upon his arraignment before the circuit court.

He was charged with giving a poisoned hamburger to Black in Saline county in June, 1943. He was arrested shortly after Black's death in Gallatin county on June 19 and entered his plea of guilty to the murder indictment July 9 in circuit court here.

Same Old Reds

Editorial by Bruce Blossat
In the callous world of communism, even apologies are fraudulent.
First the Red Chinese apologized to the British for shooting down one of their airplanes, and then they viciously attacked U. S. planes aiding the rescue effort. How brutally insincere it is possible to be?

This business of attacking defenseless aircraft is an old stunt with the Communists. It should not surprise us. The Reds think it is smart to harry us with amonies of this sort. They do not expect the tactic to lead to war.

It's one way of trying to convince their own people that the outside world really is hostile, and that the Communists are top dogs
whenever a clash occurs.

The apology, however, was a surprise. Evidently the Communist Chinese reasoned that their new approach, stressing mildness and straight dealing, would be endangered by this incident off the Chinese island of Hainan.

What they did not anticipate was the dispatch of American planes and warships to assist the rescue of survivors from the downed airliner. In the face of this show of strength, and of sympathy for the innocent victims of their crude assault, the Reds could not go on wearing the cloak of sweet reasonableness.

So they reverted to type and sent aircraft and a gunboat out to attack the rescue craft.

And in so doing they made thoroughly transparent the fakery
of their apology, which was never more than a device to help further their political aims. Those aims include entry to the UN, and splitting the Western nations.

The most baffling aspect of the whole affair is the feeble response of the British. They seem almost to have forgotten the airliner involved was one of theirs. You can measure their moral indignation with an eye dropper.

British leaders indicated quick willingness to accept the Chinese apology at face value and write off the 10 lives lost as a mere nothing.

Less than a handful of Britain's newspapers praised the American rescue effort. One gets the notion the British would like to dismiss the ugly incident as akin to a display of bad table manners, which ought to be gracefully overlooked.

Contrary to much uninformed opinion in Britain and elsewhere, the United States does not want a war any more than the British do.
We did not send our planes and ships to the rescue, nor shoot down attacking Red aircraft, in hope of starting one.

What we did was the humane and courageous thing to do. Years ago the British would have done the same. In this instance they didn't have the facilities handy to match our effort. But at least they could have supported it.

Abigail Adams, President Adams' wife, is supposed to have hung the family wash in the White House.

And So on and So on, Down Through the Years

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

Drew Pearson Says: Congress Passes Slap-Happy Legislation as Dog-Days Approach; Restaurants May Be Fined
$1,000 For Serving Wrong
Trout; Lobbyists Push For Return of Nazi Cartels in Wartime.

WASHINGTON—These are the days of slap-happy legislation—days when congressmen are bleary-eyed, lobbyists are on their toes, and when laws can be put on the statute books which only a few men want and the rest of the country doesn't even know about.

These are also days when astute Charley Halleck, of Indiana, the man who's piloting Eisenhower's program through the House of Representatives, gives no advance warning when certain pet bills are coming up. He picks the time when he thinks there'll be fewest Democrats on the floor. That was why he rammed through the all-important atomic energy bill on a Friday and kept the House in session until 3 a. m. Saturday. He knew the week ends are the time when the big city Democrats from New York, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey
leave Washington.

To illustrate what the long-suffering public faces during these hectic closing days of Congress,
here is some of the slap-happy legislation now either partially passed or awaiting passage.

The Rocky Mountain Trout Bill
—This would require every restaurant in the U. S. to print on its menu the name of the area from which its trout comes. If the restaurateur files in frozen trout from Denmark, he must print that on his menu. If it comes from Scotland, he must print that also. Or say so. Or if his dining salon is too small to have printed menus,
he must hang a sign on the wall
he must also specify when he's offering Rocky Mountain trout.

If he doesn't do these things, he's fined $1,000 or can go to jail. What this means, says M. O. Ryan of the National Association of Hotels, is that: "Hotels of count would be obliged to stop serving trout. No one would risk the possibility of a year in jail because someone shipped him the wrong fish."

Reason for the bill is that the trout hatcheries of Colorado and Idaho want to sell more trout. They want to discourage imported foreign trout.

Eisenhower happens to be quite a trout man, but Ike's State Department is against the bill, so is his Interior Department, and his Food and Drug Administration.
They have gone on record officially as opposed.

Nevertheless the bill has already passed the Senate, and may have slid quietly through the House by the time this gets into print. Why?
Because Senator Dvorshak of Idaho faces a tough race for reelection, as does Congressman Budge of Idaho; also Republicans face a tough race in Colorado for Senator Ed Johnson's vacant seat.

So because of two state elections,
the restaurants of the entire U. S.
may have to print new menus.

The Dinosaur Canyon Irrigation
Bill — Last week, congressmen streamed onto the floor of the House to vote on a bill diverting the headwaters of the Colorado in Utah and Colorado through a proposed tunnel under a mountain range to irrigate areas of those states at a cost of up to $1,800 an acre and a total cost of $172,000, 000.

To get the water, it would also be necessary to inundate one of the priceless historic areas of the U. S., Dinosaur National Park, home of the prehistoric animals which once roamed the land.

As congressmen streamed in to vote, most of them didn't know what the bill was all about. But the Congressmen Chet Holifield and Harry Sheppard, both of California, stood at the doors, telling them to vote no.

"If you love me," entreated Holifield, "vote no."

Reason for the impassioned interest of these two Californians was because southern California gets its water from the lower Colorado river and wants no possible diversion up above.

Despite frantic efforts by the two congressmen, the vote on giving the bill a "rule," namely letting it come up for debate, was a tie—199 to 199. So as the roll was called again, Holifield and Sheppard slipped around to their friends and were able to change two votes. The bill was defeated.

Note—Republicans were anxious to pass the bill to help congressmen Dawson of Utah and Chenoweth of Colorado who face tough election races.

Return of German Property —
Also on the agenda for quick passage through Congress is the Dirksen bill which would return the Nazi chemical companies, seized by the United States during the war, back to the Germans. If this passes it will cost the American taxpayer up to around half a billion dollars.

One unique angle to the German property bill is that the American Legion has endorsed it — though through a peculiar set of circumstances few Legionnaires know about.

German Embassy — What Congress seems about to do in the closing rush of Congress, is to pass the Dirksen bill reimbursing the big Nazi cartel owners who built up Hitler's war machine. Yet at the same time, Congress seems likely to sidetrack a bill returning the German Embassy in Washington to

HOLLYWOOD NEA—Exclusively Yours: Grace Kelly's confiding to Brucy's night-club debut. . . Best friends that she's sorry she ever signed a long-term MGM contract.
All of her hit films to date have been made on loan-outs to Warner Bros. and Paramount.

The threat of suspension at MGM for refusing an interior script won't frighten the lady.

Already wealthy, she inherits a few more million in five years from papa Jack Kelly, a Philadelphia contractor.

Surprising quote from Burt Lancaster, who had to mix the role of Sky Masterson in Sam Goldwyn's film version of "Guy and Dolls"
because of two other films.

"I'm a sad sack about it. I've always wanted to take a crack at the song-and-dance stuff."

Nancy Sinatra insists there's no chance of a reconciliation after Ava sheds the warbler in Nevada.
Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.'s latest business sideline—introducing popcorn into British movie houses.
There goes his chance to become a
"Sir."

RETIREMENT for Ursula
Thiess, new bride of Robert Taylor?

She's due to see her first American movie, "The Americano," soon
and she confided to a pal:
"After seeing it I may just decide to go home and be a hausfrau."

Director Alfred Hitchcock's quote
to a London newspaper is a howler.
While directing Cary Grant in a motorboat for "To Catch a Thief,"
he told a visiting British reporter:
"The most difficult things to film are dogs, babies, motorboats
and Charles Laughton."

Director Allen Dwan wanted a blood-curdling war whoop from Indians chasing Barbara Stanwyck
in "Cattle Queen of Montana."

"You tell me make war whoop," Assistant Nate Barrager relayed to Blackfoot Leader James Many Hides.

"Okay," replied Many Hides,
"we yell like Indians do in the movies."

WANDA HENDRIX's wardrobe,
now that she's Mrs. Jim Stack, has movie dolls gasping. Such expensive glad rags. . . Ray Gil-pro-American, anti-Hitler Chancellor Adenauer.

The United States seized the German Embassy during the war, a ramshackle brick building on Massachusetts Avenue, and sold it for $300,000 before it deteriorated further. After the war we returned the Japanese Embassy to the Japanese, but couldn't return the German Embassy because we had sold it.
So now the State Department has okayed a bill to pay Adenauer the $300,000 price we got when the embassy was sold.

But unlike the Rocky Mountain Trout bill which was rushed thru the Senate because of an election in Idaho and Colorado; and unlike the Dirksen bill returning Nazi industrial property, which was rushed through the Senate Judiciary committee, the German Embassy bill has been stymied for three years.

Reason: No powerful lobbyists or politicians have been behind it.

In Memoriam

In memory of Leo C. Harris, who departed this life four years ago August 3, 1950.
His memory is as dear today.
As in the hour he passed away.

Wife, Marie Harris

"SUNBRELLA HAT" IS A FAIR (AND FOUL) WEATHER FRIEND—The sunbrella hat is just what its name implies — a hat that opens and shuts like an umbrella. It is sun and rainproof, feather light and has an elasticized headband which makes it adaptable to any head size. It is perfect for fishing, golfing, gardening, shopping or just protecting the hair and complexion from a too-ardent sun. A homemaker caught in the rain while marketing or shopping can simply open her sunbrella, slip it on, pick up her packages and make her way homeward without getting wet.

It looks like an umbrella... but it's a "sunbrella" hat. ... "Look, no hands! This is great," says Alice Cornett, of Cincinnati.

Storms Hit Illinois Areas

Violent storms whipped Illinois with wind, rain and hail late Monday and were partly blamed for two deaths.

The continued rains brought further relief to farmers in the southern half of the state who had been plagued by heat and drought. Skies were clearing up over most of the state today, however.

The weather bureau at Springfield said Monday's showers, following on the heels of weekend rains, "undoubtedly alleviated the situation considerably" in southern Illinois.

Winds uprooted trees and tore down tree limbs, and lightning caused some power failures. The storm was partially blamed for an auto-train collision near Crete in which two men were killed.

Agricultural exhibits will be judged Friday morning, and Friday afternoon home-ec demonstrations will be presented. The agricultural demonstration contest, a stunt program and the queen crowning will windup the fair program on Friday evening.

Douglas, Meek Outline Views On Public Power

CAMP POINT, Ill. (UP) — Sen. Paul H. Douglas and his Republican opponent, Joseph T. Meek, presented their opposing views Monday on public-versus-private power before a group of Rural Electrification Cooperative members.

Douglas' speech was read by his wife, Emily Taft Douglas, because the incumbent Democrat was attending Senate sessions in Washington.

He predicted "a national scandal" in the activities of the utilities lobby and accused private utilities of causing slowdowns on REA surveys and loan approvals.

Private power lobbyists, he said, are trying to win dismissal of government workers who "know, understand and sympathize with farmers' electricity problems."

Meek praised the cooperative members for "excellent management" of their REA enterprises but warned that government entry into private business is a "slice of welfare state which means the police state and ultimately the bankrupt state."

Often, he said, private business has paved the way for government entry into such operations by "not accepting all the responsibilities that go with free markets."

However, he said, "two wrongs never make a right" and there is no excuse for the government to remain permanently in the lending field.

Douglas said that "last year the utilities lobby in Washington reported to the clerk of the House of Representatives that it spent over $500,000."

"The results are becoming apparent," Douglas said. "Unless I miss my guess, there will be a national scandal here."

Not In The Red
FORT MADISON (UP) — Red ink sales by one large ink maker were greater in 1953 than in the previous two years, but gloom spreaders can't prove anything by it. Most red ink sales were in the small family-size bottles, indicating the main reason for the increase is the public's desire to get more color in social correspondence, according to the Sheaffer Pen Co.

Hundreds of Articles Displayed at Floral Hall

erous and interesting, some very beautiful.

The names of Mrs. Geneva A. Altire, Mrs. Katherine Vinyard, Mrs. Jane Vost, Equality, and Mrs. Robert Webb, Curtis G. Small and John H. Black were noted among the local artists whose oil, water color, pen or pencil and pastel pictures were exhibited. Mrs. Altire also had an oriental picture made on glass with Dennison wax, which was very pretty.

Painting on textile and ceramics have been on the increase in recent years and some beautiful examples of these two arts are on display.

Antique articles range from the scales of justice, and legal documents, to quilts, coverlets and bedspreads. One antique lace bedspread has a patriotic motif and in the display of modern bedspreads one sees a veritable "garden" of flower garden quilts in every hue of the rainbow and with quilting stitches much to be admired. Near a "cowboy" bedspread for the growing youngster, will be noticed a "patriotic" quilt with scenes of national shrines between blocks representing some form of American life and industry, and all set together with print in a blue and white star pattern.

Variety of Handiwork
Every variety of handiwork is represented in the display of bedlinens, table cloths and bridge and luncheon sets. The person who has tried to do textile painting on terry cloth will find some towels that are beautiful examples of skill, among the many, many examples of fancy bath towels and dish towels.

There are articles exhibited to excite the admiration of all who knit, weave, crochet, embroidery, cross-stitch, applique, hemstitch, do cut work, tat, or textile painting, as well as those who merely fringe their linens and let it go at that.

Mrs. Henry Hancock, Mrs. Floyd Hancock, and Mrs. M. H. Behrick, who reside south of Harrisburg on U. S. 45 near Ledford, and whose textile painting won prizes at the Massac and Johnson county fairs, had entries in all of the classes under handicraft and needlework, including some painted rugs which were reversible, and painted quilts for the beds of children and infants.

In fact, it was pointed out by Mrs. George Barnes, working in this department, that some of the most beautiful exhibits entered this year, were articles for the nursery.

Floral sewing, knitted garments for men, women and children included an interesting display. Quite glamorous was a group of crocheted capes with glinting metal threads, entered by Mrs. Gertrude Huie, Sesser, and the section devoted to dainty party aprons will hold the attention more than a minute of any woman visiting the floral hall.

In the Junior Department, other than livestock, of which Mrs. Daisy M. Seright is superintendent, with $192 to offer as prizes to boys and girls under 21, the display represented the hobbies of younger boys and girls, consisting of water colored, pencil art, crayon art, painted pottery, painted shells and aprons.

Under Mrs. E. Bishop Hill, the culinary department offered $204 in prizes to the best makers of cakes, cookies, bread, candy and canners of fruit, vegetables, jellies, pickles, and packers of frozen foods.

Entries were made in every classification in this department, and the display was one of the most complete that has been shown at the Saline county fair. Many classifications had numerous entries.

The 4-H club exhibit was superintended by Marolyn Womack, and there were 30 exhibitors among the 4-H clubs of the county, under the classifications: Home beautification, Home and Commercial gardens, potatoes and corn. Their display was most attractively arranged.

Reuel Thaxton Named to County FHA Committee

Reuel Thaxton of RFD 1, Equality, is the newly appointed member of the Saline County Farmers Home Administration committee. E. Ronald Coon, the agency's county supervisor announced this week. The appointment became effective July 1.

Mr. Thaxton owns a 240 acre farm and has an outstanding herd of western and native sheep. He is a Farm Bureau member and a progressive farmer.

The other two members of the 3-member committee are Eugene Reynolds, Brushy township, and Earl O'Keefe, Carrier Mills township. Mr. Reynolds owns and operates a livestock-grain farm, specializing in Aberdeen Angus cattle, and is president of the Saline County Aberdeen Angus association. He is chairman of the FHA committee and active in all civic work of the county. Mr. O'Keefe owns and operates a livestock-grain farm. He is a life time resident of the Carrier Mills community and is an outstanding farmer of the area. He is a member of the board of directors of the Saline County Farm Bureau.

Each member is named for a 3-year term, and one appointment expires each year. No member completing a 3-year term can succeed himself.

Every agricultural county in the country has such a committee to help the Farmers Home Administration county supervisor adapt the agency's loan policies to local conditions including farm credit needs. During the past year, the county committee for Saline County has approved 21 loans out of a total of 36 applications received. Mr. Coon reported. Approximately 3 are still pending.

The Farmers Home Administration makes loans to family-type farm operators to buy, improve, or operate efficient farms, or to construct or repair farm water facilities needed for profitable operation. Special livestock loans are made where temporary credit is needed to enable the operator to remain in operation. The agency also makes emergency loans in counties or states that have been designated by the Secretary of Agriculture as areas where emergency credit is needed. However, the agency does not make loans of any type to any applicant whose needs can be handled by other credit sources.

Before any money can be borrowed through the agency, an applicant must have the approval of the county committee. In the case of a farm ownership loan, the farm to be purchased, enlarged, or improved must also be approved by the committee, the county supervisor explained.

World's Second Highest Peak

LAHORE, Pakistan (U.P.)—An Italian mountain climbing team today reported the successful conquest of the world's second highest peak, Mt. Godwin Austen—the Himalayan "killer mountain" whose snowclad heights and howling storms had defeated five previous expeditions.

Prof. Ardito Desio, leader of the expedition, said the group fought to the summit of the 28,250-foot mountain Saturday after months of battling up the jagged slopes which claimed the life of one party member.

Following tradition set by an ill-fated American expedition which tried to climb Godwin Austen last year, Desio did not name the member or members who reached the peak.

Mt. Godwin Austen, named for a British geologist, ranks second only to 29,002-foot Mt. Everest, which was conquered last spring by Australian Sir Edmund Hillary and Nepalese Sherpa guide Tensing Norkey.

Knowland Says House May Adjourn Next Week, But Senate Will Remain

By United Press
Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland said today the House may adjourn next week while the Senate stays in session to ponder the McCarthy censure dispute.

Knowland disclosed this possibility for partially solving the congressional adjournment problem after the weekly White House conference of GOP legislative leaders and President Eisenhower.

Under the proposal, Knowland said, the House could adjourn and the Senate could stay in session to devote itself entirely to completion of the work of a special committee to be set up to study possible reprimand of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Knowland said he has no way of knowing how much time the committee might consume. It must report to the Senate before sine die adjournment.

The GOP leader also said the Senate's recent atomic energy bill filibuster and the fight over McCarthy "jeopardized a good deal of other legislation, much of it good legislation which we cannot handle." He made this statement when asked about passage of the postal wage and rate increase bills.

Drought Aid: The House Agriculture Committee voted to slash sales prices on government-owned surplus feed grains to aid drought-stricken livestock growers. The move would cut the price tag on surplus corn about 10 per cent and on other grains about 20 per cent until next March 1.

He said most of the buildings involved were built with private capital. But he conceded he cleared $500,000 on the one FHA mortgage he got.

Woodring Letter Says Marshall Sold Out to Reds

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy has placed in the Congressional Record a letter from a former Democratic secretary of war alleging that Gen. George C. Marshall "would sell out his own grandmother for personal advantage."

Harry H. Woodring, reached at his home in Topeka, Kans., confirmed he wrote the letter last June 23.

Woodring, who served in the Roosevelt administration and appointed Marshall Army chief of staff, wrote that Marshall "would sell out his policies, beliefs and standards to maintain his political and military position with the powers that be."

He also said Marshall knew he was "selling out to the Reds" during Marshall's post-World War II mission to China as a special emissary to then-President Truman.

Marshall, contacted by telephone at his Leesburg, Va., home, listened attentively to a reading of Woodring's letter and said to McCarthy and then said: "I have no comment."

Asked to Resign

Woodring, a Democrat, was asked to resign as secretary of war in 1940 to make way for Republican Henry L. Stimson. He said he wrote the letter to Robert M. Harriss, New York cotton broker of the firm of Vose and Harriss. He said it was written after Harriss sent him a copy of the book, "McCarthy and His Enemies."

McCarthy produced the letter after Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) proposed censuring him for a June 14, 1951, attack he made in the Senate against Marshall.

Woodring said he named Marshall chief of staff over FDR's objections.

Referring to Marshall's 1945 mission to China, in which Marshall recommended that the Chinese Communists be included in a coalition government, Woodring said he thought Marshall "knew better and acted under instructions from the State Department and the White House." But he said this "is not to his credit in any way."

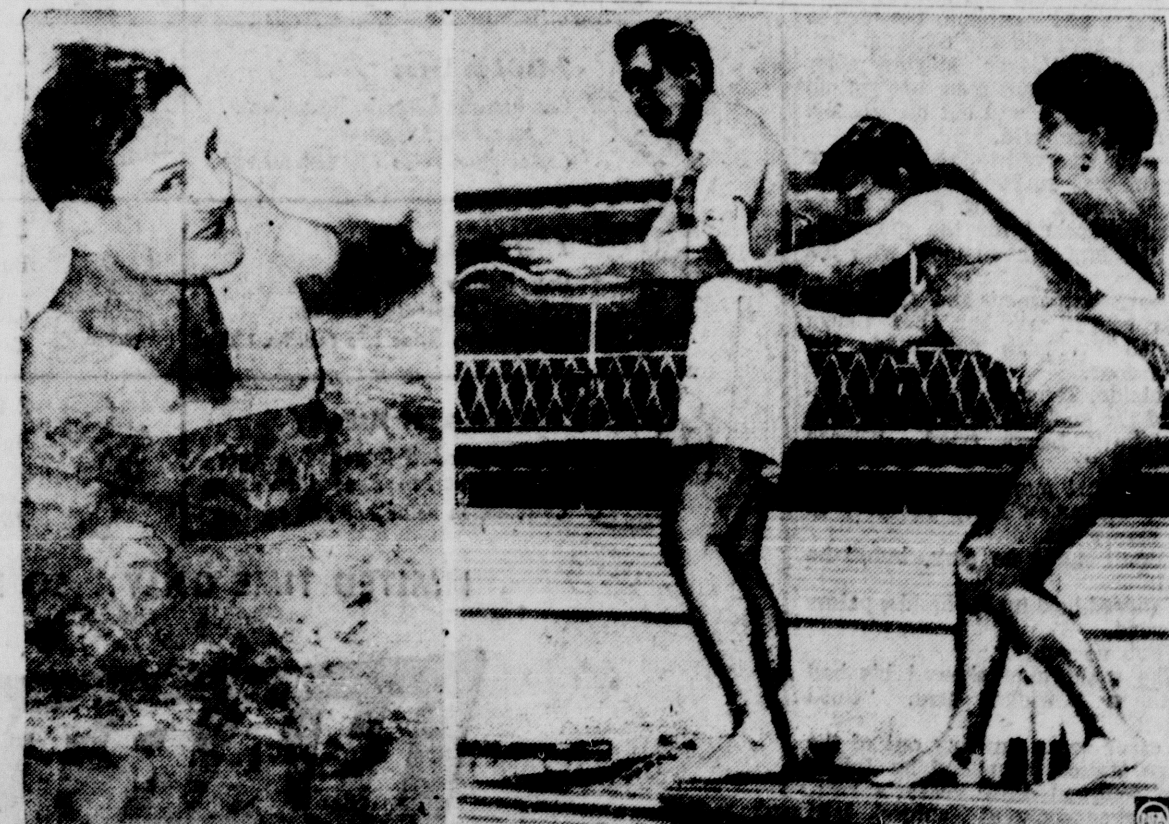

"He is a good enough military strategist to know that he was selling out to the Reds," the letter said.

Stenographer Favored to Win Hambletonian

GOSHEN, N. Y. (UP)—A fast-stepping filly from Pennsylvania remained the key horse among harness racing form followers today as this little hamlet began to swell with visitors for Wednesday's Hambletonian Stake.

Stenographer, owned by Max Hempt of Camp Hill, Pa., headed a field of 16 three-year old trotters when the entry box closed Monday, and is expected to keep her role of favorite at least until the first heat is run off at 3 p. m. EDT, Wednesday.

Old-timers biding their time at Good Time Park today had two good reasons for stringing along with Stenographer.

First, they pointed to her record. The daughter of Bill Gallon, the 1941 Hambletonian winner, won 16 of 28 starts last year and has shown no let-up in her form this season, capturing eight of 13 starts.

Post positions always mean a lot in the Hambletonian, especially in that wild spin around the track's sharp first turn, and in this respect Stenographer will enjoy a great advantage. She will start from the No. 2 position in the first tier.

Ten of the starters will make up the first tier. Pronto Boy drew the real position inside the favorite, then, in order, it will be Newport Pearl, Vicki Hanover, Darn Sweet, Cronus, Darn Safe, Lord Pick, Ideal Hanover and Prince Victor.

Working out from the rail in the second tier, the order is Rotary Hanover, True Newport, Runny-mede Hawthorn, Harlan, Newport Dream and Princess Rodney.

The gross value of the 29th edition of the Hambletonian will be $106,830, with $57,581 going to the winner.

Looking AT Sports

By BILL MELTON

Bob Feller made his first appearance against a major league team 18 years ago in an exhibition game against the St. Louis Cardinals, July 6, 1936, at Cleveland, with Rapid Robert the winning pitcher in a 7 to 6 game.

The game is recalled by The Sporting News Baseball Quiz as the Cardinals and Indians met on July 26 of this year in their first exhibition game in Cleveland since that 1936 date.

1. Strictly guessing (or do you know), how many batters did Feller fan in his three-inning chore?

Here is how you score yourself in The Sporting News Baseball Quiz: You get four choices—mark your picks 1-2-3-4. For a correct first choice you score ten points, five for a second, three for a third and one for a fourth. If you score more than 20 points, you're a better-than-average baseball fan. Fifty points is perfect.

Now mark your choices on the Feller strikeouts against the Cards in that 1936 game. ( ) 4 ( ) 5 ( ) 6 ( ) 7 ( ) 8 ( ) 9

2. There were six good outfielders working in that game, one of whom led the major league record by going through a season of more than 150 games without participating in a double play.

( ) Averill ( ) Medwick ( ) Vosmik ( ) Martin ( ) T. Moore ( ) Weatherly

3. Feller led the A. L. in games won five seasons, and tied in one. He was tied for winning percentage in 1951 when he compiled a 22 won, 8 lost record for a .733 percentage. What pitcher tied Feller that season?

( ) Garver ( ) Lopat ( ) Raschi ( ) Garcia ( ) Martin ( ) Wynn

4. Bob Feller pitched three no-hit games in his career, which ties him with Cy Young. But can you name the number of one-hit games he has pitched?

( ) 7 ( ) 8 ( ) 9 ( ) 10 ( ) 11 ( ) 12

5. While Feller ranks third in the major leagues for number of strikeouts in a lifetime (2,517 up to July 21), one of the pitchers listed below holds the major league record for most consecutive strikeouts.

Name American Ass'n All-Stars For Aug. 9 Tilt

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

Cleveland's long suffering but suddenly cocky Indians are all set to start tossing a "knockout blow" at the world champion New York Yankees tonight.

Under the arc lights of Cleveland's Municipal Stadium, the front-running Indians and the second-place Yankees will clash in the opening game of a truly crucial three-game series. And this, the Indians figure, may be the time when the Yankees' five-year American league reign is dealt a fatal stroke.

The Indians, counting on rookie southpaw Don Mossi against the Yankees' left Whitey Ford in the opener, enter the series with a 2-1-2 game lead over the Yankees. More important, they're four games ahead in the vital loss column.

Loss Column Important
"We're gonna be in real trouble if we don't gain in that loss column soon," observed Yankee catcher Yogi Berra.

Should Cleveland sweep all three games in this series, the Tribe will be seven games ahead in the loss column—with only five more games to be played between the two teams this season. The Indians still will be in clover if they win only two of the three.

Yankees Manager Casey Stengel was frankly hopeful of sweeping all three games with Ford, Albie Reynolds, and Bob Grim as his starting pitchers. The gnarled skipper nodded his head and said, "They're good men; they could sweep 'em."

Both teams ride into the series on modest winning streaks—the Indians with four games and the Yankees with three. They have split even in their 14 previous meetings this year. Neither team played Monday.

Dodgers Gain on Giants
In the National League, the Brooklyn Dodgers sliced the idle New York Giants' lead to five games by winning a 2-1, 13-inning game from the Milwaukee Braves.

The overtime battle snapped both a four-game Dodger losing streak and a 10-game Braves winning streak. Dodger starter Billy Loes singled home a run in the second inning and held that lead until the ninth inning. Reliever Dave Jolly of the Braves gave up the winning run in the 13th on singles by Duke Snider and Gil Hodges and a sacrifice fly by Billy Cox. Reliever Pete Wojcik gained his first major league win for the Dodgers.

In the only other major league games Monday, the Baltimore Orioles retained seventh place in the American league by beating Philadelphia, 10-2, and Washington whipped Detroit, 11-6.

Kiwanis Baseball Schools to Be Held on Saturdays
The Kiwanis baseball school will be held on Saturdays only for the remainder of the summer, with the next session slated for Saturday, Aug. 7.

For the past several weeks there have been baseball classes on Wednesday and Saturday mornings each week, but the Wednesday schedule has been cancelled for the rest of the summer.

Last Saturday's classes were devoted to batting, base running and throwing.

Base running contests and an accuracy throwing contest were held. Johnny Goins won the 12 years and under base running contest, with Terry Asbell taking honors for boys 15 and under.

In the accuracy throwing contest Stephen Mazoras and David Nelson tied for honors, each coming within 6 inches of a six inch target 100 feet away from home plate. Next closest was 18 inches away.

"Tom Thumb"
The real name of Tom Thumb perhaps the most famous midgelet who has ever lived, was Charles Sherwood Stratton. Stratton was a true midgelet, not a dwarf. He was born at Bridgeport, Conn., in 1838.

Belleville Wins Illinois State American Legion Baseball Title
CANTON, Ill. (UP)—Belleville defeated Darius-Girenas post of Chicago in a lop-sided 10-1 victory to capture the Illinois State American Legion baseball title.

Belleville's Kent Weisenstein, a left hander, held the Chicagoans to four hits Monday night, and had a shutout until the ninth when the Chicagoans scored an unearned run.

HUGE—Coach Buddy Parker glances anxiously at Les Bingham as the largest man in professional football weighs in at 349 1/2 pounds at the Detroit Lions' training camp in Ypsilanti, Mich. Bingham will be the middle guard on defense, as usual, against the College All-Stars at Soldier Field in Chicago, Aug. 13. (NEA)

Order to Deport Haymes Upheld

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Crooner Dick Haymes, facing deportation for wooing Rita Hayworth in Hawaii, today planned a plea to the Immigration Board of Appeals and, if necessary, a court battle to stay in the United States. Haymes' long fight with immigration authorities suffered a new setback Monday when Special Inquiry Officer Ralph Farb upheld an order to deport the singer to Argentina as an alien ineligible for citizenship. Farb upheld a government order that Haymes be deported because, as an alien, he left continental United States without permission and was ineligible for citizenship by claiming draft exemption during World War II.

'The Red Mill' At Municipal Opera Aug. 9-15

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Victor Herbert's beloved operetta designed for the young in heart, "The Red Mill," will be presented for the seventh time at the Municipal Opera here in a week's engagement beginning Monday evening, Aug. 9. Performances nightly at 8:30 o'clock will continue through the following Sunday, Aug. 15. This will constitute Municipal Opera's annual treat for the children.

"The Red Mill," of course, contains Henry Blossom's amusing plot surrounding those two American tourists, Con Kidder and Kid Conner, who aid a young lady in distress. In the roles of the tourists will be two top dancing comedians. They are Gil Lamb, star of the current "Where's Charley?" at Municipal Opera, who'll be Kidder, and Hal LeRoy, returning to Municipal Opera as the other, Conner.

Other principals include Robert Shafer, tenor favorite of 20 previous Municipal Opera productions, who'll be the Governor; Dorothy Coulter, the Princess in "Call Me Madam" earlier this season, and Kitty in the current "Where's Charley?"; Gretchen, Jon Nelson, another principal in "Where's Charley?," who'll be Bertha; William Olvis, remembered from the 1952 season, who'll be Capt. Van Dam; character-comics Bobby Vail and Will Scholz, who'll be making their first Municipal Opera appearances as innkeeper Willem and the Burgomaster, respectively; Oliver Cliff, making his fifth and last appearance of the season as Mr. Pennyfeather, and popular ballerina Patricia Bowman, who'll be making her 34th Municipal Opera appearance.

"The Red Mill" was first produced in 1906. Municipal Opera patrons first saw it in 1926, the last time in 1949. Among the memorable Herbert melodies are "In Old New York," "Every Day Is Ladies Day With Me," and "Because You're Young." For the added enjoyment of the small fry, there will also be a tap-dancing chorus of 24 children between the ages of six and 12.

Lamb has been in such Broadway hits as "Hold On To Your Hats," "The Show Is On" and "Sleepy Hollow" and in such motion pictures as "Star Spangled Rhythm," "The Fleet's In" and "Practically Yours." Previous to this season, he made his last appearance at Municipal Opera in this same role of Con Kidder in 1941's "The Red Mill." LeRoy, though still in his teens, appeared in all the Ziegfeld Follies that featured Harry Richman and Helen Morgan. His stage credits include "Strike Me Pink," "Thumbs Up," "Too Many Girls" and others. Movie fans have seen him in "Wonder Bar," "Start Cheering" and "Harold Teen." He last appeared at Municipal Opera in two 1952 productions, "Show Boat" and "Sally."

BITTER SAGE

By Frank Gruber Copyright 1954 by Frank Gruber

I During The War Between the States, Sam Older rode with the infamous Quantrell. He raided and looted and he was at the bloody massacre of Lawrence, Kansas.

After the war when even the guerrillas received amnesty and returned to peaceful pursuits, Sam Older became an outlaw. Then Sam Older was killed and became The Great American Legend, the man who was hounded into outlawry and stole from the rich to give to the poor. The name of Wes Tancred, the man who killed Sam Older, became an epithet.

Life has to be lived. Wes Tancred rode the lonely trails. He saw Dakota and Wyoming, he rode through Kansas and Colorado. He went to Texas and Louisiana, Illinois and Kentucky, Ohio and Missouri. He visited towns and cities, he rode for days without seeing another human being.

He had to live, so he worked. He worked as a laborer on the railroad as it crept across Nebraska and Wyoming. He sold shoes in a store and once he read law in an attorney's office, but mostly he worked as a printer, a trade at which he had had some apprenticeship back in Missouri before he had killed Sam Older.

In the spring of 1876 a doctor in Michigan listened to his heart and tapped his chest and his lungs and said, "Get rid of the tension, get out in the sun and work with your hands. Forget everything that's ever worried you and relax." The doctor knew him as John Bailey. A lot of people had known him by that name and quite a few of them had talked to Bailey about the blackhearted traitor who had killed the great Sam Older.

Someone wrote a song about it and the man who called himself John Bailey heard it. It was an extremely popular ballad. Men and women sang it. Bailey heard it a thousand times. And the doctor told him to get rid of the tension! He did not know that John Bailey was Wes Tancred. Well, one place was as good as another. So now in the spring of 1877, the man who called himself John Bailey looked over the log poles of the corral behind the stage station and saw miles of Kansas prairie land. He watered the horses and he fed them. He rubbed them down and he hitched them to the once-a-week stage as it paused for moments every Thursday on its way to Kansas and Western a hundred miles to the south. He drove the reined horses into the corral and rubbed them down and fed and watered them and tended them, and on Saturday he hitched them to the north-bound stage as it stopped for moments on its run to the Union Pacific 220 miles to the north.

And when there was no work to be done, which was most of the time, he sat in the sun and watched the sod-covered stage station. And Laura Vesser. Laura was 20, a slim, fresh girl with the bluest of blue eyes and a freckled nose. She had lived here with her father at this lonely spot on the Kansas plains for six years. It was a sorry life for a girl, but Vesser had no relatives in the east with whom she could live and he had only one lung and could not live in the towns.

Then one Wednesday morning the three men came out of the north and tied their horses to the corral poles. They were whiskered and unkempt and none had washed for days. They were ravenously hungry and they ate every scrap of the food Laura cooked and set before them and no word was said about payment for the food. They asked for whiskey.

"I don't sell it here," Vesser told them. "Who said anything about selling?" sneered the worst looking one of the trio, a man the others called Jethro. "We ain't got $2 between us."

Vesser shook his head. "I've no whiskey to give you." Dave, who might have been the leader of the trio, a cold-eyed man in his early thirties, got up from the table and went into the lean-to where Laura did the cooking.

Angrily, Vesser started after him. The squat man sprang up from the table and cut off Vesser. "Don't, he said. Vesser swerved to the wall where a rifle was suspended across two wooden pegs. Jethro came up as Vesser reached for the gun. He clouted him a hard blow with his fist.

Laura screamed and the squat man lunged for her, but Laura evaded his grab and made the open door.

Outside, Tancred was coming toward the station from the corral. "John!" Laura cried. "Those men..." The squat man came out of the stage station, a Navy revolver in his grimy fist. "Don't make no play, bub," he said. Tancred held up his hands, palms forward. "I've no gun."

The squat man showed his bad teeth in a wicked grin. "Good thing!" Vesser came hurtling out of the stage station, propelled by Jethro who followed with Vesser's rifle. He looked coolly at Tancred, then with a sudden hard blow, smashed the gun barrel over a rock, cracking it. He threw it to the ground. "Just so we don't have no trouble."
